Enhanced performance

Planibel Linea Azzurra - a product acknowledged for its unmistakable look and performance - is being reinvented this year. While remaining unique and distinctive, it will adopt an even more neutral appearance. The result will be a modern look combined with enhanced technical specifications and performance.

This upgrade will result in lower energy absorption levels, thus boosting solar heat gain (g value). A higher solar heat gain can increase the entire energy balance of a window and have a positive impact on the window's energy rating.
